

Breitnau

The village to fall in love with

On a plateau above the Höllental with the historic Hirschsprung and the wildly romantic Ravenna gorge, as well as a fantastic view towards Feldberg, lies the climatic health resort Breitnau. Located just over 1000 m high, Breitnau is a scattered village with large, widely separated farms, which are picturesquely embedded in a wide and high valley surrounded by pine forest. This location gave Breitnau its name "Breite Aue" (wide land).

From recreation home to active hotel of BASF

After BASF's employees already had access to rest homes on the North Sea and in the Palatinate, the High Black Forest was chosen as the third location in order to allow BASF's recreation seekers to enjoy winter sports. The choice fell on Breitnau, because here in a beautiful, park-like landscape, away from through traffic and traffic noise, the ideal conditions for recreation were available. In July 1955, the newly built house was opened under the following motto:

Recovery from heavy work

Collection of new forces

Joy in God's beautiful world.

In the main house there were single and double bed rooms with a total of 72 beds, in the out building, apart from some single rooms, there were 6 large bedrooms for young people, supplemented by bathrooms and shower rooms. The ground floor was occupied by common spaces such as a dining room, a meeting room and a game and writing room. Since 1970, the house has a 17 x 8 m swimming pool, the sports hall with an action area of 24 x 12 m was added in 1978. The equipment was supplemented in 1997 by the sauna.

Today you will find a modern hotel, in almost untouched nature, which leaves nothing to be desired....
