

Information on Video Surveillance by BASF

BASF takes data protection seriously. This information describes the principles that apply to video surveillance by BASF for the purpose of protecting our premises and facilities.

Furthermore, we would like to inform you about:

- the existence of your rights regarding video surveillance
- the Controller in the meaning of data protection laws and, where applicable, our Data Protection Officer

1. Principles

The following principles apply to Video Surveillance by BASF:

a) Legitimate Interests

BASF carries out video surveillance, if and to the extent it is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests of BASF. The legitimate interests are determined by the purpose of protecting and monitoring the premises and facilities of BASF.

BASF does not carry out Video Surveillance of public areas and/or individual private areas (e.g. apartments or gardens).

b) Transparency

When BASF carries out Video Surveillance, a notice at a suitable place will indicate the Video Surveillance (e.g. pictogram, camera icon). Furthermore, you will find under each surveillance camera a notice indicating where this Information on Video Surveillance by BASF is publicly available.

c) Data Protection by security and by design

BASF will adhere to data protection by security (Art. 32 GDPR) and by design (Art. 25 GDPR) when procuring, installing and operating surveillance camera systems. To the extent necessary, BASF will not use functionalities that are not required (e.g. comprehensive surveillance by dome cameras, zoom functionality).

d) Documentation

BASF documents all video surveillance systems in accordance with applicable data protection laws. As a rule, such documentation comprises the purpose of the video surveillance and the areas under video surveillance.

e) Controller

BASF carries out video surveillance for the purpose of protecting and monitoring its own premises and facilities.

Controller in the meaning of data protection laws for the respective video surveillance system is the legal entity of BASF-Group that installs and operates the respective video surveillance system (“BASF”). Such legal entity is responsible for the principles determined in this document.

2. Information according to Article 13 GDPR

a) Controller

Controller in the meaning of data protection laws for the respective video surveillance system is the legal entity of BASF-Group that installs and operates the respective video surveillance system (“BASF”).

Name and contact details of the responsible data protection officer and controller are available at basf.com/data-protection-eu.

b) Legal ground

Legal ground for processing personal data by video surveillance is point (f) of Article 6 (1) General Data Protection Regulation. The legitimate interests are determined by the purpose of protecting and monitoring premises and facilities in the area of chemical production. You are free to disclose such personal data. Without providing such data we can refuse the access to the areas under video surveillance.

c) Storage periods

BASF stores the personal data collected by video surveillance to the extent necessary for the purpose of the collection and erases such data thereafter (point (a) of Article 17 (1) GDPR). The erasure will be carried out no later than 8 days upon collection to allow BASF to evaluate the necessity of a storage. Furthermore, BASF may store such data if and to the extent foreseen by applicable laws.

d) What rights do you have?

Right to access: the right to obtain access to your information (if we're processing it), and certain other information (like that provided in this Privacy Policy);

Right to correct: if your personal is inaccurate or incomplete you have the right to have your personal information rectified;

Right to erasure: this is also known as 'the right to be forgotten' and, in simple terms, enables you to request the deletion or removal of your information where there's no compelling reason for us to keep using it. This is not a general right to erasure; there are exceptions. For example, we have the right to continue using your personal data if such use is necessary for compliance with our legal obligations or for the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims.

Right to restrict our use of your information: the right to suspend the usage of your personal information or limit the way in which we can use it. Please note that this right is limited in certain situations and apply in the following cases: (a) inaccuracy of data; (b) where our processing is unlawful and you don't want your personal information erased; (c) we no longer need to use the data for the purposes for which we collected it, but you need such data for a legal claim. When processing is restricted, we can still store your information, but may not use it further. We keep lists of people who have asked for restriction of the use of their personal information to make sure the restriction is respected in future;

Right to data portability: the right to request that we move, copy or transfer (where technically feasible) your personal information in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format, for your own purposes across different services;

Right to object: the right to object to our use of your personal data where such use is based on the legal ground of legitimate interests;

Right to be informed: you have the right to be provided with clear, transparent and easily understandable information about how we use your personal information; and

Right to withdraw consent: if you have given your consent to anything we do with your personal information, you have the right to withdraw your consent at any time (although if you do so, it does not mean that anything we have done with your personal information with your consent up to that point is unlawful).

The exercise of these rights is free of charge for you, however you are required to prove your identity with 2 pieces of approved identification. We will use reasonable efforts consistent with our legal duty to supply, correct or delete personal information about you on our files.

To make inquiries or exercise any of your rights set out in this Privacy Policy and/or make a complaint please contact us by emailing or write to us and we will endeavor to respond within 30 days. Name and contact details of the responsible data protection officer and controller are available at basf.com/data-protection-eu.

When we receive complaints, we will contact the person who made the complaint to follow up. We work with the appropriate regulatory authorities, including local data protection authorities, to resolve any complaints that we cannot resolve directly.

If you are not satisfied with the way any complaint you make in relation to your personal information is handled by us then you may refer your complaint to the relevant data protection supervisory authority.

e) Supervisory authority

You have the right to lodge a complaint with a supervisory authority, in particular in the Member State of your habitual residence, place of work or place of the alleged infringement. Or you can contact:
