Plastic waste is converted into feedstock. This feedstock can be used to create all kinds of chemicals and products, especially plastics. Customers use these to make their own products. Consumers and companies use and dispose of products. The waste is collected and sorted by waste companies. Waste companies supply recyclers with plastic waste.